Sino po ang nakaalala sa TV commercial ni Eva Eugenio para sa 3 Flowers Pomade? Nakita ko po sa YouTube na nagkaroon din ang nasabing patalastas ng commercial spoof sa Champoy noong dekada '80.

South Cotabato's T'nalak Master weaver and Philippine's National Living Treasure Be Lang Dulay passed away at the age of 91, yesterday, April 30, 2015.

Lang Dulay suffered a mildstroke earlier this year and has been in a coma for nearly three months.

The Tboli tribe have lost an icon following her death.

Declared a national living treasure in 1998 by the NCCA, she was recognized for her excellent craftsmanship for weaving the traditional Tboli cloth called Tnalak which is now the cultural emblem of the Province of South Cotabato.

She is a Tboli princess and Gawad Manlilikha ng Bayan awardee.

Lang Dulay, tells the stories of the T'boli people living in Lake Sebu ,South Cotabato.

Her canvass is made of fine Abaca fibers weaved into T'nalak cloth and her designs infused with the history of her people have made her a national living treasure of this country. www.bomboradyo.com/koronadal

SHOUT OUT TO THE U-MATIC, VHS AND BETAMAX PLAYER OWNERS!!!

In keeping with the goals of preservation and access at the CCP Library, we are trying to digitize original collection materials for online exhibition and online catalog. With that, we ask for your help by donating U-MATIC, VHS and BETAMAX PLAYERS that are still functioning for the use of retrieving old collection materials. In this way, you will help lessen the cost of digitizing our library materials. You sure will be of great help in the preservation of the Culture and the Arts.

For questions, you may call the Library and Archives Division at 832-1125 loc 1513.

The Philippines will mark the 73rd death anniversary of Jose Abad Santos, former Supreme Court Chief Justice and World War II hero, today, May 7, 2015.

The day, which this year falls on Thursday, is a special non-working day in Pampanga as well as Angeles City by virtue of Republic Act (RA) 8815. RA 8815 came into effect during the time of former President Joseph Estrada.

Abad-Santos was born in San Fernando, Pampanga in February 19, 1886. Prior to being the country's fifth top magistrate, he served as speaker of the House of Representatives and an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

A brief history of Liquid Paper.

'In 1951, Bette Nesmith Graham (mother to Michael Nesmith, of the 1960s band The Monkees) invented the first correction fluid in her kitchen. Working as a typist, she used to make many mistakes and always strived for a way to correct them. Starting on a basis of tempera paint she mixed with a common kitchen blender, she called the outcome fluid Mistake Out and started to provide her co-workers with small bottles on which the brand's name was displayed.

By 1956, Graham founded the Mistake Out Company and continued working from her kitchen nights and weekends to produce small batches of correction bottles. She was fired from her typist job after she made a mistake by typing in her company name instead of the bank's. After this stroke of bad luck, she decided to devote her time to her new company.

The inventor offered the product to IBM, which declined the offer. She sold the product from her house for 17 years; the name was changed to Liquid Paper shortly after. By 1968, the product was profitable, and in 1979 the Liquid Paper Corporation was sold to the Gillette Corporation for $47.5 million with royalties.'

Not bad for a once typist who became a self-made millionairess.

THE CONDOMS OF HAPPY JUAN FLAVIER

WHEN Juan Flavio Velasco was health secretary in the administration of President Fidel Ramos, he brought with him to one Cabinet meeting a box of condoms. Ramos was then scheduled to visit Thailand and his security people had asked for some “protection.” AIDS was a serious problem in Thailand in those days. Cabinet members and the president helped themselves to some of the samples.

After the meeting, reporters asked if it was true that Flavier had handed out condoms. He told them the truth.

The next day it was front-page news. Senator Francisco “Kit” Tatad called for Flavier’s resignation. The church went after him, and priests all over the country denounced him from the pulpits, calling him an abortionist. During a nationally televised talk show, one priest said that Flavier “hated babies.” Flavier lost his cool and snapped, “I love babies. I love them so much I made four myself. How many have you made?”

By the time the whole condom uproar died down, the Department of Health’s approval ratings had gone up and AIDS awareness in the country had soared to its highest levels---almost 90 percent after Flavier’s first year in office.

In his autobiography “From Barrio to Senado,” Flavier narrates his problems in his first bid for the Senate. It was no secret that Cardinal Sin was opposed to his senatorial candidacy.

“The only aspect to running that I despised but I also anticipated was the mudslinging that could be called unchristian. The Catholic Church, of all sectors, proved to be an expert and enthusiastic participant in the game of black propaganda and disinformation.

“As expected, I was denounced as an ‘abortionist.’ Priests called me an ‘agent of the devil.’ They were so persistent in their lies. . .

“According to a survey commissioned by the John Hopkins University Communications Group, I lost at least 300,000 votes due to the Church campaign against me.”

But in the end, Flavier placed fifth in the winning senatorial lineup. If we include the 300,000 votes lost due to Church opposition, he easily would have made it to the top 3. There must have been a lot of Filipino Catholics who decided not to follow the Church and who voted in accordance with their conscience.

For all his differences with the Church, at the height of his notoriety as a “condom pusher,” Pope John Paul II singled him out of a gauntlet of Philippine officials gathered to bid good bye to the Holy Father. Flavier remembers receiving a rosary. As the Holy Father touched his head, he said, “Thank you for all the health preparations.” A few years later, Cardinal Sin approached the senators one by one and thanked them for their role in the impeachment of President Joseph Estrada. When he came to him, Flavier recalls that Cardinal Sin gave him a hug.

“In all sincerity, let me say it ranked right up there with receiving a personal blessing from the Pope. I knew even then that nothing had changed in our relationship and positions. Still, it was a special moment, something I will never forget and anxiousness did genuinely lift from my heart. I’d like to think for a fleeting moment, the Cardinal and I were able to express respect for each other as men committed to our respective missions in life.”

As an elected official he followed simple rules:

On speaking engagements, job recommendation, requests for abuloy, charity and so on, he would have none of these practices.

He refused to be a ninong in any wedding or baptism. Neither would he cut any ribbons. All of these was spelled out, printed and posted outside his office door at the Senate.

As for the Countrywide Development Fund better known as PDAF today, or pork barrel, he turned his over to the Land Bank of the Philippines for administration and disbursement.

On party loyalty, Flavier recognized that President Ramos got him into government. He said he would never changed parties. "In a world of ever-shifting loyalties, it is one of the things I am truly proud of. Coalitions have come and gone but Lakas-NUCD has remained the only political party I have ever been a member of."

For a while, he thought of running for the presidency. In his own words, "There must have been some part of me that wanted to see what else I could give to our country."

But soon enough he realized that he didn't have any "fire in the belly" for the position. He argues that "fire in the belly" is the first prerequisite for anyone aspiring for the highest political office in our country. You must absolutely want to be president. You must absolutely have the drive to seize the position.

"Without that fire, without that ambition the position will be ill-served even by the most noble of intentions."

As the title of his autobiography indicates, Flavier made it from the barrio to the Senate. He was a small-town boy whose parents were grade-school dropouts. He became a doctor, serving in the rural areas, and along the way he was selected to head the Philippine Rural Reconstruction Movement. He later became president of the International Institute of Rural Reconstruction.

As health secretary and later, senator of the Republic, he was responsible for some of the most meaningful initiatives that benefited our people: The Anti-Smoking Law of 2003; population management programs; Traditional and Alternative Medicine Acts; measures for the prevention and control of diabetes and other similar health proposals.

But what made him happy?

At one time during his Senate stint, he found himself alone at the session hall when Sen. Miriam Santiago approached his desk.

She asked him, "Johnny, why are you so happy? You look so happy every time I see you. What makes you happy?"

Flavier thought for a second. Then he replied, "My grandchildren."

"I truly find it amazing that among the things I would like to take credit for in this world, more than laws and bills, and trees I had planted, and barrio programs I had nurtured; what truly makes me feel that my life has not been wasted is the thought that there are decent young people who will simply be proud to call me 'Lolo'.

"Senator Santiago merely smiled and thanked me for my answer. I thanked her for her question."

The good and well-loved former health secretary and senator succumbed to multi-organ failure and pneumonia-related sepsis on Oct. 30, 2014 at the age of 79.

Godspeed Johnny.

Ymman Jake Biaco RCPI was owned by BayanTel. When telegraph got obsolete, they shifted to a variety shop for loading, money transfer and bills payment. It's now USSC, if i'm not mistaken.

Joseph Emmanuel Jacinto In Cebu, PT & T had a lot of branches, like in Legazpi St. and Mandaue City. They even had a branch before in Colonnade Mall, which is now occupied by a garments shop.

On RCPI, they once had an SM City Cebu branch, in the mall's lower ground floor. Now, it is a vacant space.

This Day in Music

20th May 2012, Robin Gibb, one-third of the Bee Gees and a singer-songwriter who helped to turn disco into a global phenomenon by providing the core of the soundtrack to Saturday Night Fever, died from cancer aged 62. Bee Gees hits including: Massachusetts, I've Gotta Get a Message to You, How Deep Is Your Love and Stayin' Alive, established their pop legacy by placing their falsetto harmonies at the centre of the 70s disco boom. <http://www.muzu.tv/bee-gees/night-fever-video-music-video/.../...>

Guys totoo ba to? sa june 12 daw ang newest LUPANG HINIRANG (ABS-CBN version)? parang kasi hoax eh

Luigi Pegollo Peñalba

Tuesday at 11:27 PM · 🌐

ABS-CBN still using the 2011 Kapamilya PH national anthem, but it should be re-updated (this time: minus Ai-Ai delas Alas (now she currently returned to Kapuso), plus Antoinette Taus, James Reid & Nadine Lustre, Sharon Cuneta, Maxene Magalona, Jolina Magdangal & Marvin Agustin, etc.); the 2015 version can be seen on TV on June 12 (in time for the Kapamilya Flag Raising Ceremony). — with Marvic Joshua Chavez and Nelson John V. Guien Garma As per MTRCB rules on television ratings, exempted po ang mga news programs. Pero, discretion pa rin ng mga network kung maglalagay sila nito [e.g. ang PTV-4, may PG reminder bago magsimula ang mga newscast nila; ang ABS-CBN, kusang naglalagay ng SPG sa mga balitang sa tingin nila e nangangailangan talaga ng striktong patnubay at gabay ng magulang].

Edwardson Diestro Dalawang generation yun sa Nick on RPN. In early 90s some of the program carried from PTV (Except for Against All Odds is a Biopic show feature prominent personalities after The Wizards World every Monday that was the New Vision 9 era). In the late 90s. (1997-2000 i dont know the exact date but correct me if i wrong) Nick is now feature a full animation program Like Rugrats, Hey Arnold and SpongeBob. But some of Nick program also air on Studio 23 before.

Why the promo periods/durations of a certain promo, along with its DTI/DOH-FDA permit numbers, are being shown in the last frame of its TV commercial, unlike before where these two elements were placed in black bars or in the lower part of its TV commercial? I have been observing that since September or October 2013. (I'm just wondering, though.)

Pinoy Kollektor added 42 new photos to the album: 1920s PHILIPPINES FREE PRESS CHRISTMAS ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Christmas holiday season is the biggest sales time of the year for almost every corporation. In order to boost their sales and profit, they need to advertise in a way that will give your company an advantage over others.

Advertising is still a key part in getting consumers to buy these products, even though Christmas is the biggest time of year when people spend their hard-earned money. Since we know people usually buy more around the holidays, it is the part of the company to put out catchy advertisements to pull in consumers to their product. The more money and effort you put into a good advertisement, the better chance you have of luring in consumers.

These advertisements are from the newspaper The Philippines Free Press on Dec 22, 1923. It is the oldest news weekly in the Philippines, established in 1907 which was founded by Mr. Robert McCulloch Dick.

Here is a glimpse of Christmas advertisements back then.

Jake Jacinto Pinoy Nostalgia has really gone a long route. From its launching as "Pinoy Nostalgia TV" on July 12, 2010 by Kuya Gabby Hernandez, it was able to create spin-off pages like "Pinoy Nostalgia Radio" and "Pinoy Nostalgia Products, Establishments and Advertising," which eventually resulted into the merger into what is now "Pinoy Nostalgia."

"Pinoy Nostalgia" wouldn't have been successful today if it was not for co-admins Vlad, Ymman, Jenine, Anjho, and others who helped contribute with Gab more about the TV shows, radio programs, ads, etc. of yesterday, and despite the continuous emergence of other similar retro groups, many of which we partnered, and the continuous attacking of hoaxers outside, Pinoy Nostalgia remains firm, robust, and stable.

Once more, congratulations to your PN team and I hope you look forward to the future in informing the Filipinos of yesterday's memories in the years to come.

Thank you so much.

Balik-Tanews: "13 killed, 10,000 families homeless in super typhoon", Manila Standard, November 14, 1990

Naaalala niyo pa ba ang Bagyong Ruping ng Unang Taon ng Dekada NoBenta?

Super Typhoon Mike (international designation: 9025, JTWC designation: 27W, PAGASA name: Ruping) was the second strongest typhoon, behind Typhoon Flo, and the deadliest typhoon of the 1990 Pacific typhoon season as it crossed the Philippines in November. Forming from an area of persistent convection over the Caroline Islands, Mike headed westward. Early on the 8th, the depression strengthened to Tropical Storm Mike near Yap. Mike became a typhoon early on November 9, the 18th of the season. On November 10, the typhoon rapidly intensified, reaching peak winds of 165 mph later that day. In a 48-hour period, the typhoon deepened 99 millibars to a pressure of 915 mbar (27.0 inHg). Mike weakened shortly before land interaction and slammed over the eastern Philippines as a 140 mph (230 km/h) typhoon on November 12.

Mike reached a secondary peak of 95 mph (153 km/h) winds on November 14. However, interaction with Vietnam again weakened it to a minimal typhoon. Vertical shear increased, weakening Mike to a tropical storm on the 16th.

Early the next day, the storm passed over western Hainan Island, and degraded to a tropical depression that night. After a brief passage over the Gulf of Tonkin Mike hit southern China, then dissipated there on November 18. [WIKI]

• Jake Jacinto The aftermath of "Ruping" really had a huge impact on Cebuanos. There was no electricity and water service for a few weeks since the typhoon. Some major Cebuano businesses had to close down or shorten operating hours, while others decided to buy generators just to keep the business going.

Sa mga nakatira sa Davao region,

Sino ang nakakaalala ng advertisement na Uno Dos Tres food supplement? Ang jingle niya ay:

Si mama at papa

Uno Dos Tres

Si ate at kuya

Uno Dos Tres

Si lolo at lola

Tito at tita

Very healthy

Ang Pamilya

GIRL: Thank you po!

Uno Dos Tres

Sa tulong niyo

Uno Dos Tres

Actually the video shows that there is a hand who draws a perfect happy and healthy family, a yellow background with uno dos tres box and three pellets, and a family pictorial.

Parati itong nakikita sa NBN 4 Davao (now PTV 4 Davao) every night at 8:55 PM before the PCSO Lotto Draw. It is along with Krusada Kontra Krimen TVC and Tatak K with Karlo Nograles.

Sinong may audio or video clip nito? Please relpy ASAP kasi mahirap hanapin sa internet, eh?

Here's the real reason why MOD (by Atlas) and Woman Today (by Solar Publications) folded up in October and December 2013, respectively: The two magazines failed to keep up with the times, and they were only able to shift to glossy paper, 10 years after Summit Media pioneered in that kind of magazine format in the country. (This info is found in question no. 7 of this article.)

Q&A with Summit Media President Lisa Gokongwei-Cheng on Transforming the Magazine Industry | The...

Q1: When you started Summit Media in 1995, your glossy, higher priced magazines became the new industry standard. What was your insight behind the new concept or what inspired you to tackle something different? Did you have a back up plan if it had not succeeded? In 1995, when we launched Preview,...

Info about curfew during martial law.

Lahat 1900s with Ed Bryan Delfinado

CURFEW DURING MARTIAL LAW 1970s

Everyone, not just impetuous teenagers, had to abide by a curfew during Martial Law. The dreaded Metrocom, or Metropolitan Police, detained anyone on the road between 11 p.m. to 4 a.m. Thus, meetings, conferences and parties had to end before 11 p.m.

If you stay out after the curfew, you'll be detained until four o'clock in the morning. And then your record will be checked. If you have a criminal record you'll be detained and be charged again. But if you don't have one, you'll just be detained from eleven or after eleven o'clock in the evening until four o'clock in the morning the next day. Then you will be sent home with a warning or if you are a repeat offender, you will be ordered to clean Camp Crame or the side streets of Manila as punishment.

Anu-ano 'yung iba't-ibang mga patalastas o sponsors ng "Eat Bulaga" na napapansin noon? (The segment wherein the product was sponsored should also be included.)

Note: This post has been reposted for the 36th anniversary of the country's longest-running noontime variety show. Members who are planning to post about this topic should not make another post about this, but rather search this post in this group under the keywords "Eat Bulaga" or "sponsors." (The search box for this group (only) is found in this group page, under the group's cover photo. The search box has a text called "Search This Group...") I'll show you a picture about that feature sooner or later.

Isidra Reyes Manila Nostalgia

Evangelist and actress Coney Reyes at age 21 on the cover of Sunburst, The International Magazine. Born Constanca Angeline Reyes Nubla, she was only 7 when a nun at St. Paul's College virtually pushed her onstage for a walk-on role. Before embarking on a career in the entertainment industry, she made sure to finish her studies first, graduating with a degree in Communication Arts at Maryknoll College (now known as Miriam College). Her conservative family did not approve of her chosen career, though. Her grandfather even wrote her off as "a disgrace." Today, she is one of the Philippines' most esteemed television and movie actresses and a renowned evangelist affiliated with Victory Christian Fellowship. She was first married to basketball star, Larry Mumar, by whom she has a son, and thereafter had another son by singer and TV/movie personality, Vic Sotto. Source: Sunburst, August 1974

As Saksi: GMA Headline Balita

On October 2, 1995, GMA Network launched the program, originally entitled Saksi: GMA Headline Balita, as a 15-minute early evening weekday newscast. It was then anchored by Mike Enriquez (then known as "Mr. Saksi") and Karen Davila. Saksi became popular in such a short time, that people were using the word as a catchphrase, complete with the pointed forefinger like the program's news anchors. In the early years of the newscast, the anchors, especially Enriquez, popularized the word "pasok" (come in) in introducing reporters (who included Jessica Soho, Arnold Clavio, Mao dela Cruz and Susan Enriquez, among others). This style of introducing reporters was also previously used in GMA's other regional news programs patterned after "Saksi" like Balitang Bisdak (Cebu), Testigo (Davao) and Ratsada (Iloilo), this catchphrase was no longer used since Mike Enriquez left the newscast in 2004.

On July 1, 1996, Mel Tiangco joined Enriquez and Davila, after the former's transfer from ABS-CBN when she was suspended from doing a TV commercial. Economist Solita "Winnie" Monsod also joined the newscast with her own opinion segment, "Mareng Winnie" (which became a moniker by which she has been since known for). Other special segments, such as Huling Hirit (light human-interest stories to cap the newscast, reported by Kara David), S na S (Showbiz sa Saksi) (a showbiz segment with Lyn Ching then she anchored with Enriquez, Davila and Tiangco) and Jessica Soho Reports were also added to the news program, as its set was reformatted & running time was expanded to 30 minutes.

Sonza-Tiangco Era

In 1998, Saksi relaunched its studio set, graphics and remodeled the 1995 logo. Partners Mel and Jay and Tapatan host Jay Sonza joined Mel Tiangco, and was replaced Enriquez while he appointed as an anchor of GMA Network News with Vicky Morales who and the news team switched to Taglish then Filipino. Sonza, was also transferred from ABS-CBN as news anchors with Mel Tiangco, used Mike Enriquez's catchphrase "pasok" at the time he anchored the newscast. Davila, on the other hand was replaced by Luchi Cruz-Valdez to the newscast and became a co-host of Extra-Extra, a magazine program featuring different human-interest and entertainment stories (which also served as pre-programming to Saksi). New segments such as, "Pulso ng Mamamayan" was launched, the newscast asks Filipinos to speak up and tell them what they think of what's happening in the country today. Thus, Saksi and Partners Mel and Jay are the news programs exclusive to them and expanded the newscast to 45 minutes.

Enriquez-Morales Era

Second Saksi logo during the Enriquez-Morales era, which pioneered the infamous "Eye" insignia of the newscast

On August 2, 1999, Tiangco was appointed as anchor of Frontpage: Ulat ni Mel Tiangco, which replaced GMA Network News on the late-night slot but the newscasts continuously on weekends until 2002. She and Sonza were replaced by Enriquez and Morales, thus continuing their partnership on Network News. Enriquez went back to Saksi with Morales were final anchors with him on the weekday edition of GMA Network News in their partnership. In the same year Davila left the newscast and has now moved to ABS-CBN. The original subtitle, GMA Headline Balita, was also dropped since then. The studio set also used chroma-key technology, and later on they transferred to the newly built GMA Network Center, in which, it relaunched its contents during that time. This was also the beginning of simulcasting the newscast on the network's radio station, Super Radyo DZBB 594 kHz.

On July 15, 2002, Saksi exchanged timeslots with Frontpage in order for the latter show to compete with ABS-CBN's TV Patrol (which was, incidentally, the newscast that Tiangco came from before transferring to GMA). The shift to late-night also prompted the start of "Side Trip", a human-interest segment hosted by Howie Severino.

In the same year, Saksi won the Gold Medal for Best Newscast in the New York Festival, becoming one of the few news programs outside the United States to receive the said honor. The award (With the Peabody Award that the network won in 1998) was later recognized by the Philippine Congress by issuing the network a commendation for its work in News and Public Affairs.

On June 30, 2003, its studio set reformatted, along with the graphics and remodeled the 2002 logo.

Enriquez left again to the newscast on March 12, 2004 to rejoin Frontpage anchor Mel Tiangco, and chosen to anchor their new early evening newscast, 24 Oras.

DID YOU KNOW?

There was one time that Birch Tree Milk was really phased out from the market, and that was during the 1980's. This was because some cows got infected after a factory blew up and contaminated the dairy farm nearby. Some time later, a radio announcer informed the bad news on air (probably on DZBB in 1988) that the sales of Birch Tree were reported to drastically plunge as consumers were panicking. The announcer on-air (I don't know what's his/her name) had to clarify the issue by reading a long list of serial or packaging numbers of the contaminated Birch Tree cans that were shipped sometime after the incident occurred.

As a result, Birch Tree's wholesome reputation was destroyed and the product faded away by the 90s. It tried to make a comeback sometime in 1996 (with strawberry and chocolate flavors this time) but it still didn't flourish. It was only sometime in 2009 or 2010 after Richard & Lucy Gomez were tagged as lead endorser's of BT that the milk brand again regained a clean and worry-free reputation. Aside from the product recall of Maggi Noodles in early 2011 due to salmonella, what are some of the other product recalls in Philippine history you still remember? (Product recalls from other countries, particularly the U.S., can be included, as long as it brought a huge impact or gave relevance to the Philippine market.)

(Anyway, I saw a Tylenol ad in Women's Journal's June 27, 1981 issue.)

Aside to Senator Aquino's death anniversary, today is also the commemoration of the Plaza Miranda Bombing wherein 9 people killed, and many injured including some Senatorial Candidates of Liberal Party for 1971 midterm elections.

Malacañan Palace

#todayinhistory — On August 21, 1971, a political rally of the Liberal Party in Plaza Miranda was bombed, killing nine people and maiming scores of others. Among those hurt were prominent opposition leaders Jovito Salonga, Gerardo Roxas, and Sergio Osmeña Jr. Immediately after the Plaza Miranda bombing, President Ferdinand E. Marcos suspended the Writ of Habeas Corpus, leading to the arrest and incarceration of twenty people.

The trail of Senator Ninoy Aquino's arrival from Massachusetts to Manila. As you can see, he got many stopovers by that time.

Malacañan Palace

In 1983, after three years in exile, Senator Benigno S. Aquino Jr. returned to the Philippines to lead the opposition against President Ferdinand E. Marcos. It would be Ninoy's final journey.

Today—August 21, 2015—marks the 32nd anniversary of Senator Benigno "Ninoy" S. Aquino Jr.'s return to the Philippines and his martyrdom. The PCDSPO spearheads an online commemoration—featuring an interactive page with a comprehensive timeline, infographic maps, essays, and testimonials on #Ninoy and his sacrifice—on the Official Gazette website: www.gov.ph/featured/ninoy/
